LEWIS & Co.

If a man's dinner is right, and he rises from the table conscious that his wife has used the same judgment as to price that she did in the selection of the articles disposed of there can be no indigestion to follow. Our goods are of the kind which bring health, happiness and a fat purse.

Table delicacies are a fad with us—they are bought because we know the average Honoluluite is fond of good things for the stomach. Our prices are below the average and special inducements are offered to cash purchasers. Our latest importations include the best goods obtainable in the English markets.

Copeland's English Peas; Cod's Roe, Mackerel in Mustard Sauce and Cambridge Sausages in tins are so well put up that it would be difficult to detect the difference between them and the same articles direct from the market.

"Teyssonneau" is a long name to put before Pate but the combination makes the best tid bit ever placed before a gourmet. These are goods that anyone may eat without fear of indigestion following.
They are put up in the best factories in Europe and come to us in elegant condition.

HISTORIC BATTLEGROUND.

How May Flow Again Where Caesar and Antony Met.

A descriptive article in an exchange predicts that, if there be a prolonged campaign in Epirus, the towns of Janina and Prevesa will be important points. Within the past twenty years the Turks have built a road practicable for artillery from Janina to Monastir in Macedonia. Up to that time there were no wheeled vehicles in Epirus. There is another fair road from Janina to Prevesa, on the Gulf of Arta, and here it is said that the Turks have been massing their strength.

Prevesa is within sight of the spot where the battle of Actium was fought in B. C. 31. Caesar and Antony, as the reader will remember, lay encamped on opposite sides of the mouth of the gulf for several weeks, Antony because he could not screw up his courage to order an attack, Caesar because he knew that his opponent's army was melting away from disgust at his effeminate subservience to Cleopatra. When the tug-of-war came the land troops took no part in the fray, but watched the sea fight until Cleopatra and her infatuated lover took flight. It is quite possible that history may repeat itself here, though if the Turks lose control of the sea they may find themselves bottled up, with a hostile country behind them. Western Epirus is a broken region, with a scanty supply of water, and quite impracticable for cavalry.

Midway between Janina and Prevesa is the rock of Suli, where the Suliots defended themselves against the whole Turkish army in Epirus for the space of ten years, and when their fortress was taken leaped from the cliff into the abyss beneath. Such memorable spots are inspiring, and if the army of Constantine should chance to encounter the enemy in the Valley of the Acheron, they will probably give a good account of themselves.

Desolate and empty as Epirus and Thessaly now are, they have a history which goes back to the legendary period, and in which the most famous names in ancient annals occur on many a page.
Specimens of Cyclopean and Pelagic masonry in moldy ruin are found everywhere. At an age when Hellenic art was unborn there was a civilization on these northern mountain crags which was able to erect monuments only second to the Pyramids of Egypt.
It was in the territory of Janina that the oracular oak of Dodona stood—the sacred tree which Ulysses consulted and to which Achilles prayed.

Through this pleasant region flowed "black Acheron," so smiling a river that Byron declared "if this be hell, shut close Ely-sium for me." Of this country Pyrrhus, King of Epirus, was a ruler. Fragments of his buildings are still shown the traveler.
Philip of Macedonia and his son, Alexander, lived over the way. To reach their home you must cross the Pindus, where the historic bear still nips the stranger unaware.

If the Turks resist the aspirations of the Greek people, other places not even recorded in guide book or gazetteer may become classic ground. The Greek Constantine is probably making history without knowing it. If he is lucky, he may record his name on the register of fame by the side of Marco Botzaris and Constantine Canaris.

Printed ducks are just as good, if not better than anything else for boys' shirt waists. They wash and wear well, two very important considerations. Kerr has them in a large variety of patterns at eight yards for one dollar.

The "Australia" takes away orders for delicacies which we have introduced to the Hono-places on the tables of the epicures of Honolulu.

Tinned Goods, many of them, but they are prepared so capitally that they surpass even the fresh goods. The demand for these special lines is grow-taken in the factories where they are put up. The material is carefully selected and only the best is sent to Honolulu.

We have now on our shelves and ready for delivery the Epicurean Brand Vienna Sausage, Shrimps with Tomatoes, for the table no better goods have ever been brought to the
